Foreword . . .

Upon the endless seas of life, memories swell and crash as ceaseless breakers against the shore of experience. Minute, individual ships cleave these peaking waves with sturdy prows and emerge refreshed by the crystal spray of recollection that is cast upon their well-worn decks.

During future voyages, may this "The 1959 Triad," serve as a fitting log to fathom the shifting tides of reminiscence and reiterate four years beneath the billowing sails of THS.

"Time and tide wait for no man." Now the school year of 1958-1959 has vanished below the horizon.

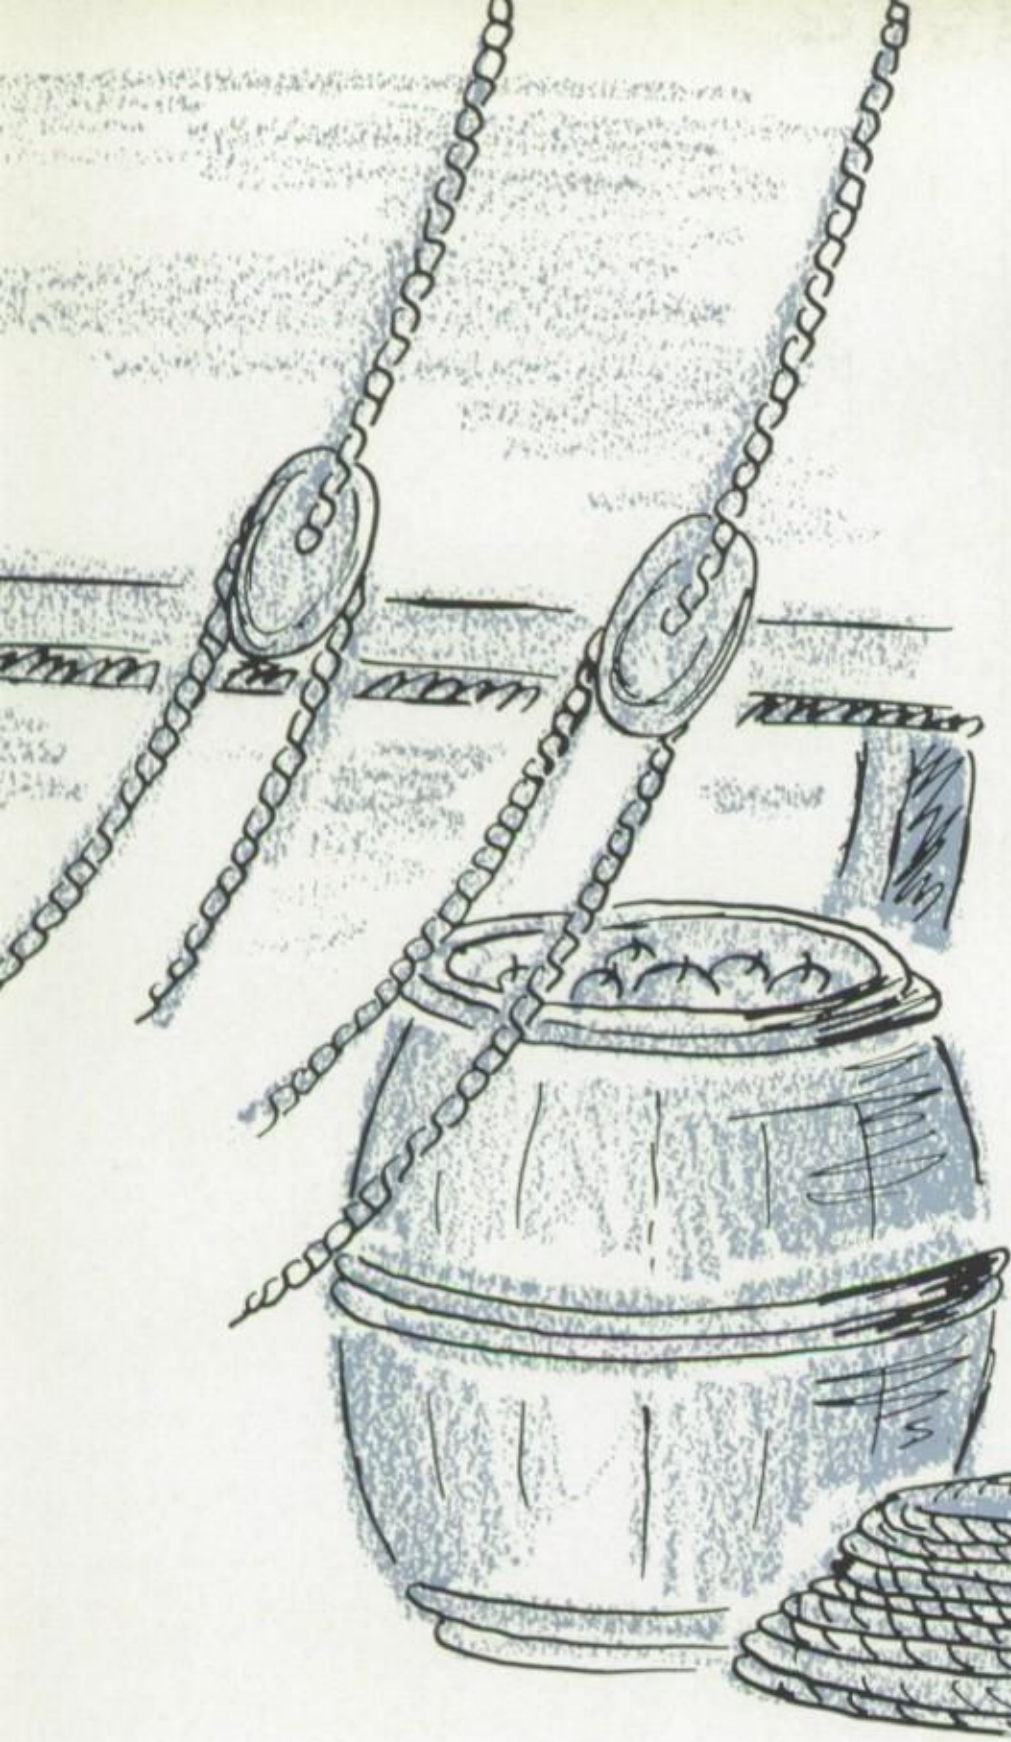

From September to May changes were made not only on campus but on the face of the nation and in the skies above it. With the passing of statehood bills for Alaska and Hawaii, the U. S. fleet of 48 spread its sails and raised a new flag. During the passing months a growing armada of space crafts, friendly and otherwise, plundered the heavens for scientific treasures.

On the international scale, Little Reds experienced a visit from Anastas Mikoyan, Russia's first deputy premier; military crises occurred in Lebanon, Quemoy, and Berlin; and Fidel Castro and his band of bearded buccaneers engineered a successful mutiny against Batista, Cuba's deposed dictator. Locally, many Triads felt the effects of construction work on Interstate Route 70 and a frigid winter of treacherous driving and an ice-flooded Ohio River.

While the world watched, the United States made history: the atomic sub, Nautilus, conquered the Polar ice cap from beneath; commercial jet air travel was established; the Yanks did it again; and in a memorable sudden-

Samplings of "Snow Time '58," the annual "Triad"-Triadelphian Benefit Variety Show invade the second-floor hall. Joyce Morris puts her foot into it in a rib-tickling pantomime, "Blum Blum"; Lynne Koehler, Mary Ann Yates, Bonnie Binger, Jane Sampson, and Janet Criswell reminisce on the twenties with a suitably bedecked Charleston to "I Wanta Be Loved by You."

"I mean, Man, like I don't dig spiders," says Lyle Anne Ernst to Sharon Johnson.

Carolyn Rider, Nancy Lucas, and Brenda Wolodkin prepare to take "A Sentimental Journey" in "Snow Time '58."

"... and every inch of him is a-l-l l-o-v-e!" sighs Lil' Sis Hopkins, portrayed by Bonnie Bell in the two-evening performance presented Dec. 4 and 5.

Virginia Benyo persuades Robert Wendel and Connie Conaway to invest in "The 'Dairy' Best."

death overtime the Baltimore Colts copped the world's professional football championship.

September led to May, and an entire nation of hula-hoopers harmonized to "Tom Dooley" and "The Chipmunk Song." For some Little Red privateers, 1958-1959 was the initial voyage; for others, the graduating crew of '59, it was the final sailing on the good ship Triadelphia.

Karen Butler, Linda White, and Sue Ann Vail, attempting to assist the Little Red gridgers in their effort to conquer Wheeling's Wildcats, cast an evil spell upon the Gold and Blue, Oct. 24, at the Island Stadium. Although the Triad cause was in vain, Tridel's fans and students, as well as the squad, displayed the exuberant school spirit that seemed to be lacking at THS during recent years.

Vivian Joyce Porter, Barbara Kay Klein, Bonnie Miller, and Donna Jean Miles, representing the Oak Park student body and faculty, presented a telegram to the Red and Black gridgers just before they were to take the field to battle Wheeling. Playing an inspired brand of ball, the Triads fell a touchdown short of upsetting the favored Wildcats. Coach Bob Roe's Gold and Blue employed the lonesome-end offense and riddled the air with passes to turn back the keyed-up Oak Parkers, 26-18. Little Red gridmen, left to right, include Bernard Carney, Walter Steinman, Howard Gray, James Pfeiffer, Carl Robert Gellner, Charles Witt, Leslie McNinch, John Kidd, David Jackson, and Robert Albaugh.

Prior to the Oct. 24 grid encounter with Wheeling, Tridel's Little Reds hanged a Gold and Blue player in effigy. Clinging to the dangling body was a sign that prophesied "The End of You, Wheeling!" After a valiant effort, however, the Red and Black team succumbed to a 26-18 deficit.

Sarah Trach and Tom Birch plan their exchange speeches to be delivered before the Warwood High School student body.

Little Red Cager, Richard Hess (31), snags a rebound during Tridel's victorious encounter with Warwood, Dec. 16, on the Bridge Street boards. Oak Parkers John Osborne (36), James Brown (37), and Vikings George Gallupe (23) and Frank Scenna (15) view the action.

DEAN OF BOYS J. W. COCHRAN

at day

Noted for his ready sense of humor, his sparkling eyes, and his infallible memory for names, J. W. Cochran has held the position of Tridel's dean of boys for the last 12 years of his 25-year tenure as a member of the Oak Park faculty. Serving as counselor, mediator, and instructor, Mr.

Cochran has ably administered his duties from within the portals of his quarters in 200, a room familiar to every Triad boy who has sought that mandatory yellow slip at 8:50.

In addition to the responsibilities of co-sponsoring the National Honor Society and the Junior Town Meeting, Tridel's dean took on the self-sought task of aiding in the launching of the newly organized Forum, which he also co-sponsors. During his career at Triadelphia, Mr. Cochran has taught American history, problems of democracy, and commercial arithmetic.

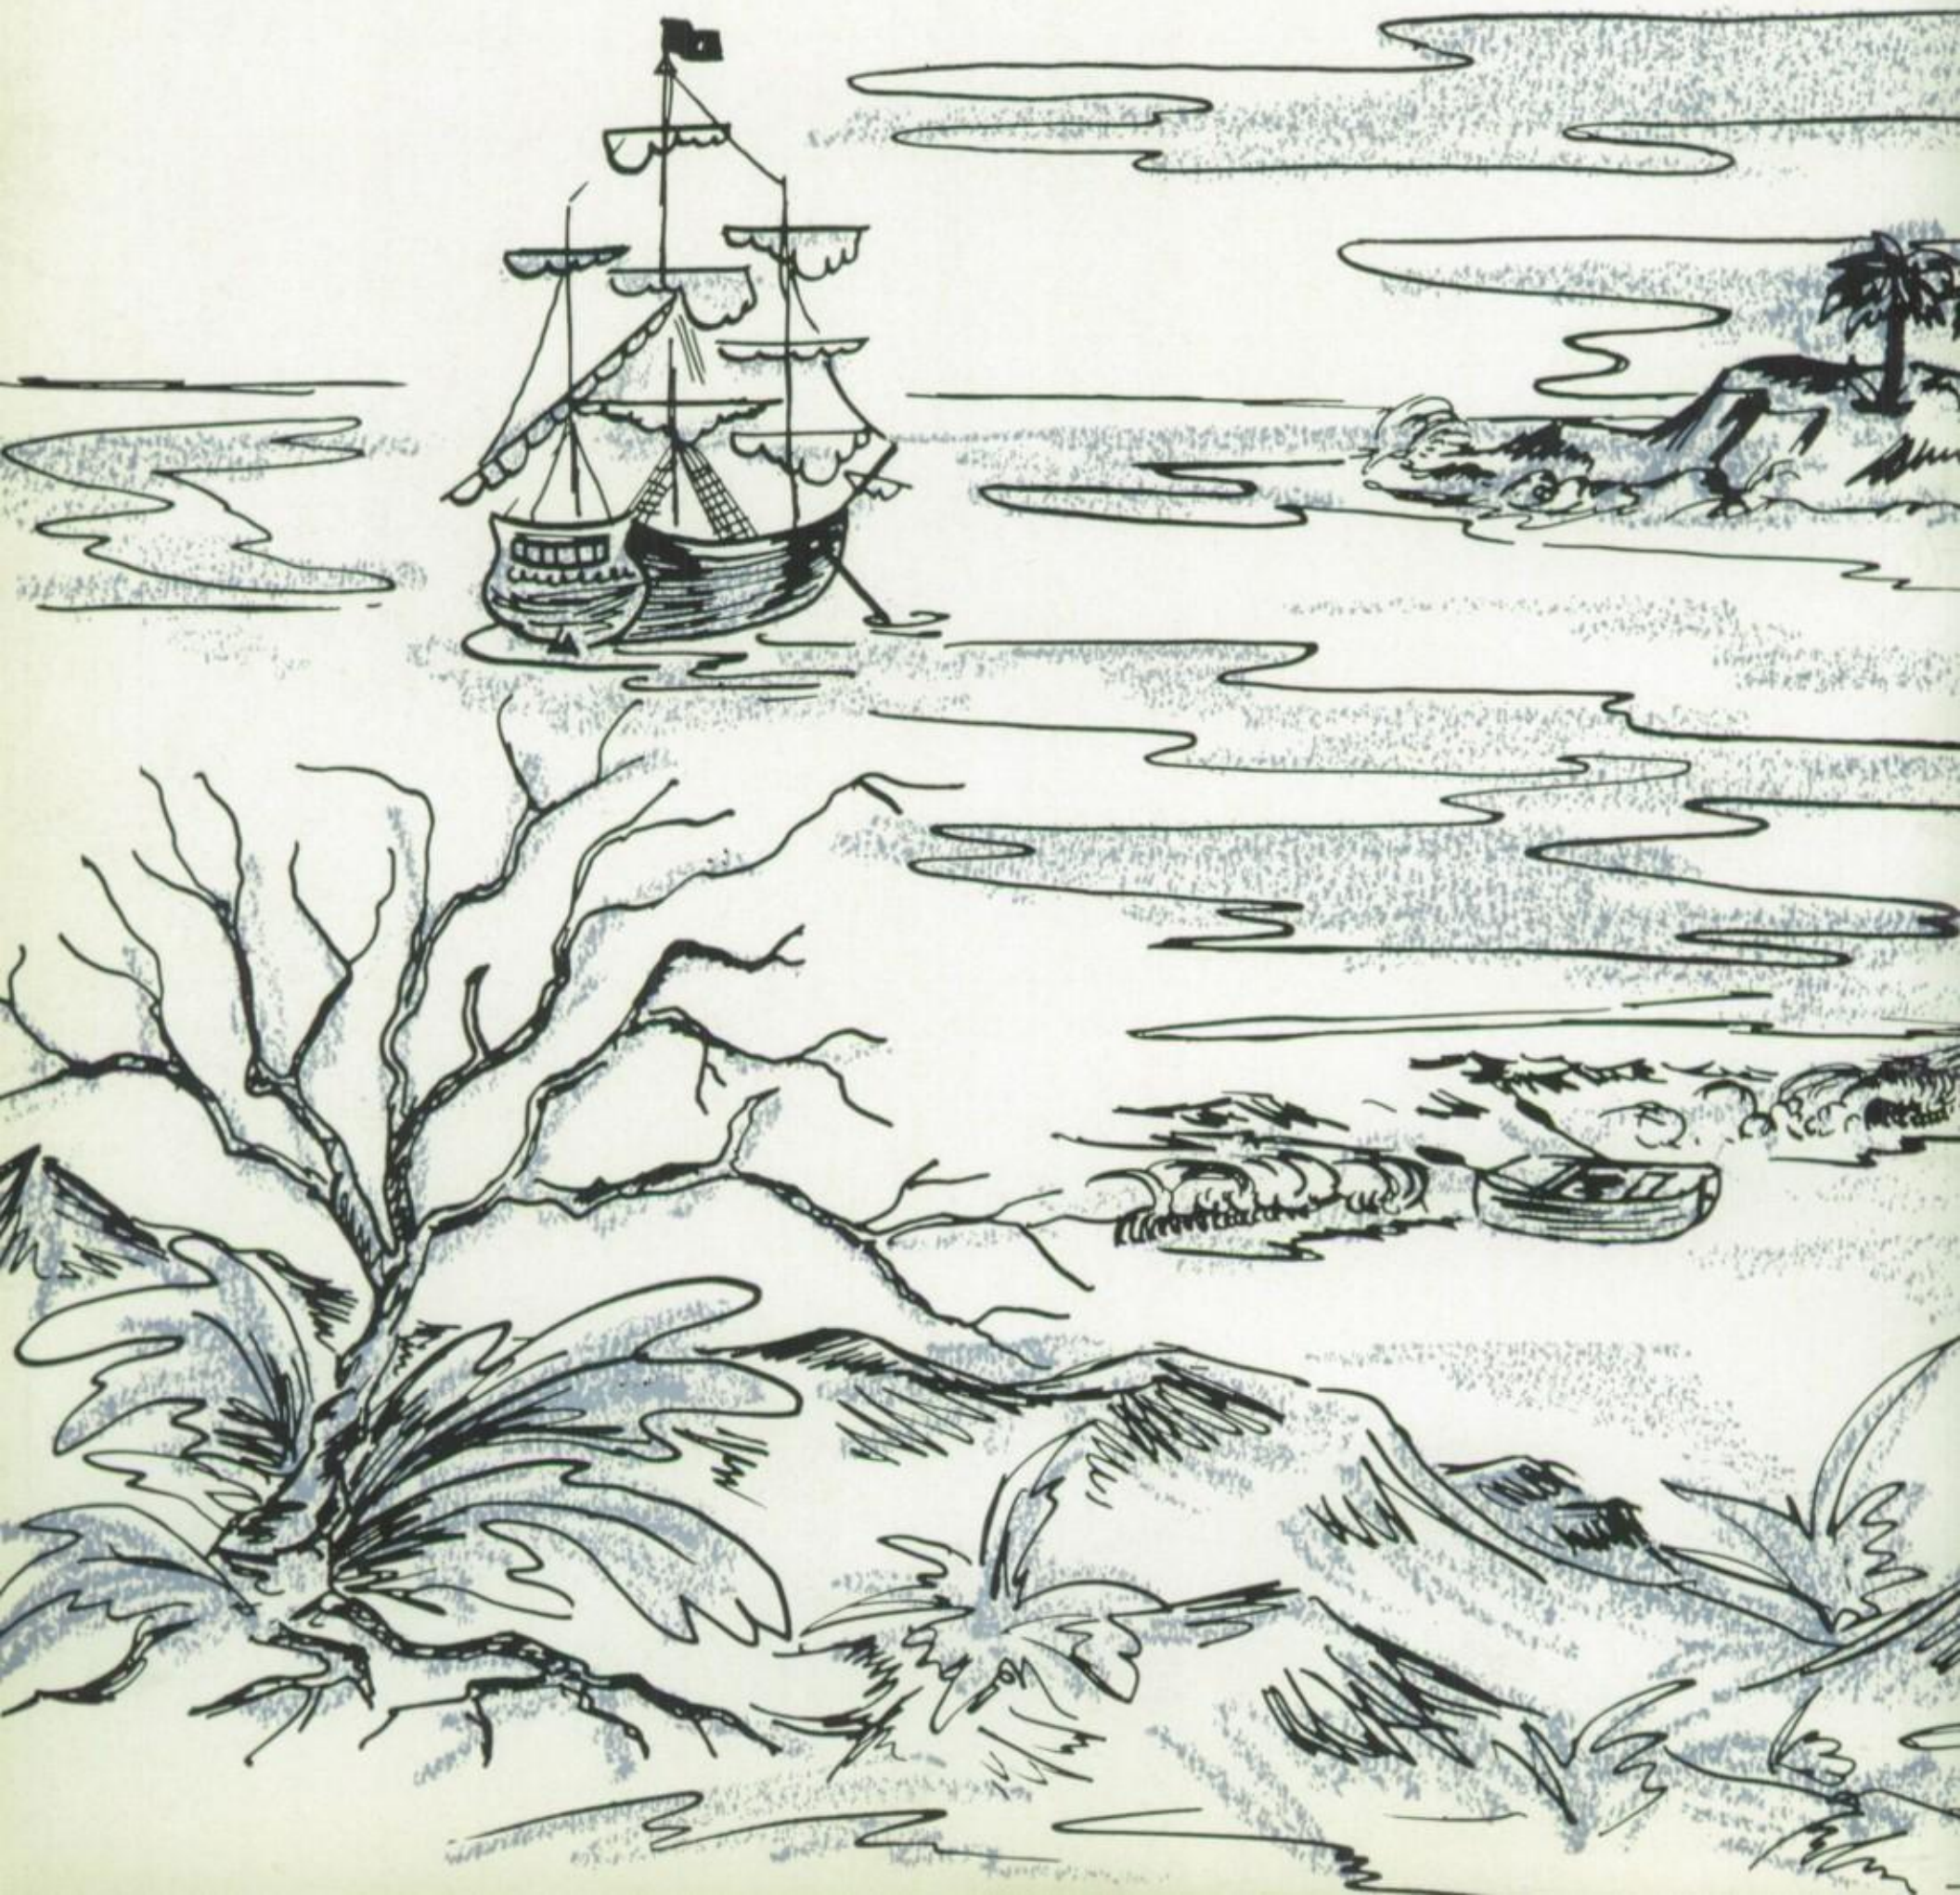

As a counselor to the male sector of Triadelphia's student body, this capable administrator has meted out invaluable advice concerning high-school courses, college potentialities, and the inevitable tour of duty.

To this firm but understanding personality, as a token of gratitude and respect, the staff of "The 1959 Triad" dedicates Volume XLV, hoping that it may serve as a fitting tribute to a devoted man who has given far more than time and talent in a sincere effort to prepare every Little Red for a gratifying career, suitable to himself, his country, and his fellow man.

Performing one of his many daily duties, Dean J. W. Cochran presents Sophomores David Francis and Jay Nesbitt with admit slips.

Board of Education Determines Policies of Public Schools

Realizing that today's educated youth will be tomorrow's enlightened citizen, the Ohio County Board of Education endeavors to maintain scholastic standards that are in keeping with outstanding communities throughout this nation.

Comprised of the five-member school board and the county's three superintendents, this non-partisan unit holds itself responsible for the repair of the area's public schools, for free transportation of students living farther than two miles from their educational buildings, and for the supply of textbooks utilized in class instruction.

Under the presidency of John H. Clark, the group determines the policies of the public schools of Ohio County from 2130 Chapline Street, Wheeling, the third Thursday of each month. J. P. McHenry, superintendent of the system, serves as secretary to the board.

Landing Party

Terminating four years before the mast, crew members of Tri-del's Landing Party set their sails and heave to for new, uncharted waters. Navigating a straight course will be difficult, and success is not an easy plunder.

A high sea is running, and for each buccaneer of '59 there lies ahead a hidden island with troves of buried treasure waiting to be found—for them, new and greater sails billow on the horizon.

Junior Class

In its third-floor realm the junior class reigned, preparing to step into the coveted position soon to be vacated by the seniors.

Events leading toward the eleventh-graders' cherished goal included the distribution of class rings on Lincoln's birthday and the selection of two of their members as Tridel representatives to the annual "Know Your State Government Day" in Charleston. Another bright spot in the lives of these third-year students was their being able to attend the Junior-Senior Prom for the first time.

Sophomore Class

Dissecting insects and bisecting angles formed a small part of a sophomore's busy school life.

Eager to join the many clubs open to them for the first time, tenth graders broke through shells of shyness to become better acquainted with their Alma Mater.

Boasting a large representation in sports, these second-year Oak Parkers also acquired a little culture from Shakespeare's immortal "Julius Caesar" and Dickens' historical "A Tale of Two Cities."

Freshman Class

Making new friends, adjusting to a few regulations, and becoming a part of time-honored traditions, the freshmen, picking their various ways through strange corridors, felt the first loving bonds of THS.

Staring down from the "shelf," this year's ninth-grade crew felt slight twinges of envy as they longingly eyed the upperclassmen and dreamed of the days to come when they, esteemed sophomores, would be privileged to occupy the "ground" floor.

THS Benefits From Activities, Laws of Student Council

Comprised of outstanding students of the freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior classes, Tridel's Student Council provided a framework of laws and honor by which Oak Parkers governed themselves.

In the 1958-'59 term the representatives served plebes as guides for Freshman Night, and at the twelfth annual Open House provided the same guidance for Little Red parents.

Under the co-sponsorship of Miss Elizabeth Anne Meek and Glenn R. Schreiber, the Out-the-Pike House of Representatives voted six outstanding Triads "Student-of-the-Month" awards, sold book covers, pencils, and paper.

Social enterprises included "Twirp Week," climaxed by a dance; a semi-formal affair in Oglebay Park's Pine Room; and daily noon dancing.

Student Council delegates represented Tridel at Jackson's Mill and at a three-day State Leadership Conference in Morgantown.

Richard Stone assists Sylvia Gilmore in advertising the Student Council's semi-formal dance.

Travelers upon "El Camino Real," or the royal road, who had earned an "A" in first-semester Spanish or a "C" and above during the first six weeks of Spanish II were eligible for membership in the Spanish Club as were those who had completed the two-year Spanish course.

Sponsored by Miss Margaret Moore, the senores and senioritas journeyed "South of the Border" the second Thursday of each month. Meetings were enlivened by competitive Spanish word games and brain-taxing skits presented in Spanish. Bingo played in "el espanol" proved to be twice as enjoyable and required twice as much concentration. Christmas customs observed by Latin Americans also provided an informative and vivid session.

Prospective "socios" of the club were required to appear in authentic peasant costumes for initiation.

Bedecked in togas, four Roman citizens, alias Stephen Brooks, Mary Ann Yates, Carol Ann Korn, and Lynne Baker, examine the Latin calendar presented to Miss Audrey Lazear, sponsor.

Latin Linguists Revive Roman Fads and Fashions

Required to have an "A" at the completion of Latin I or a "B" for the first semester of Latin II, Classical Club members met every fourth Tuesday under the capable guidance of Miss Audrey Lazear.

Donning togas, initiates of this 30-year-old organization went on a treasure hunt for articles appearing on a list that was written in Latin.

Activities for the year included a book review, "Roman Life," by Susan Broverman, Joan Bailey, and Linda Jean Strothman; a contest for translating Latin mottoes into English; the presentation of a Roman calendar to Miss Lazear; the singing of Christmas Carols in Latin. For their Yuletide contribution members circled the tree in the first-floor hall.

Farewells were bade at the closing Roman-style banquet held in May, at which time officers for 1959-1960 were installed.

Filles Francaises Feature Parisian Parleys

Motivated by the desire to create a wider appreciation of France and its customs, this year's French Club, under the direction of Miss Elinor Nally, brought Parisian festivity to THS.

Gay Paree provided the basis for the first-semester initiation. New members, arrayed in the colors and costumes of can-can dancers, displayed their "art" at noon dancing.

At a regular monthly meeting, Miss Mary A. Erskine, a previous French tourist, provided the members with a travelogue of her visit to this colorful European country. A film on France, its people and its landmarks, was the feature of the March gathering.

Besides business meetings, the club presented devotions in assembly, contributed to the Junior Red Cross and year-book drives, and held the traditional "Day-of-the-Fish" (April 1) Bake Sale. A French-style banquet concluded the Parisian activities of these enterprising Little Reds.

Bette Louise Hadsell and Jean Vellenoweth, French Club members, examine a map of France in order to become better acquainted with the country they are studying.

Quill & Scroll Society Accepts Five New Members

For superior endeavors and individual achievement in journalism, Quill & Scroll, international honorary society for secondary writers, accepted five Little Reds as members during 1958-1959.

Headed by Robert H. Porter, director of Tridel's award-winning publications, the Red and Black chapter was named to honor Miss Mary A. Hervey, sponsor of "The Triad" and The Triadelphian for 22 years.

To merit membership in this selective organization, a journalist was required to be at least of junior standing and in the upper third of his class in scholastic attainment, to be an outstanding writer, and to be recommended by his adviser and the executive secretary of the international organization.

Upon meriting admittance, members received the gold pin of the society, a year's subscription to the magazine "Quill and Scroll," and an individual certificate.

Little Red Actors Stage Comedies, Holiday Presentation

With the traditional "Lights! . . . Action! . . . Try that again!" the Little Red Masquers and Thespians opened the curtain to a stageful of comedy and solemn scenes for the 1958-'59 season.

Premiering with "The Sisters MacIntosh," the THS troupe was under the praising, but perfecting, watchfulness of Miss Mary A. Erskine. Continuing their tour of the realm of drama, the Oak Park actors staged "He, Who Walks in Love," a dramatic presentation in observance of the Christmas season. February's production was a perennial comedy, "The Devil and Miss Appleby."

Behind-the-scenes' crews were also busy earning the 100 hours of stagecraft required by the National Thespian Society. Prop and costume committees, script holders, announcers, and stage hands contributed to the "finished product."

Mrs. Clifford Bell, Wheeling, explained the art of voice perfection to the 30 members in one of the club's special Wednesday programs.

Linda Winesdorfer, Janet Lee Schmeichel, and Joseph Lykins rehearse their roles for "He, Who Walks in Love," a one-act Christmas drama.

Energy, Enthusiasm, Expert Guidance — Ingredients of Staff

Printer's ink had little time to dry before the 12 and 1 occupants of Room 302 were proofreading and re-reading the latest endeavors of perfection-striving journalists.

Penning headlines, cutlines, and copy, dummied The Triadelphian, mounting glossy prints, preparing for formal and informal photos, checking page proofs and galley, counting word space, dashing frequently to the printing plant and to the photographers' studios, and returning to homegrounds remained among the essential ingredients in keeping the Fourth Estaters' "gray matter" in working order.

With the expert counseling and guidance of Robert H. Porter and the staff's ceaseless efforts, The Triadelphian, under the editorship of Karen Rosenberg, merited State, National, and international honors.

Precious memories were instilled into Little Red hearts forever, when in May, "The 1959 Triad," under Lynda Cornell's editing, was distributed among hundreds of eager Oak Parkers.

Journalistic Endeavors, Incorporated . . . First-year journalists aided by veteran staff members penned The Triadelphian, Volume XLV, into Oak Park service.

Striving for exactness and envisioning their stories in print, these fledgling Fourth Estaters utilized galley, blue book, dictionary, thesaurus, headline chart, clip sheets, and print shop in meticulous preparation for each of the 10 editions of the four-, six-, or eight-page papers.

To alleviate the costs of Oak Park publications, the Little Red reporters compiled and sold student directories, made up and solicited ads, secured yearbook patrons, and sponsored "Snow Time '58," Tridel's annual variety show. Lynda Cornell, yearbook editor, emceed the two-night benefit.

Perfection in print having been received by the assistance of Robert H. Porter, adviser, the journalists garnered three coveted publication honors: The Columbia Scholastic Press Medalist, Quill and Scroll International Honor Award, and West Virginia University First Honors.

Alvin Lee Frank, Andrea Niehaus, and Sallie Meier read galley for The Triadelphian.

Foursome Debates US Stand in Foreign Aggression

"Should the United States protect small nations from foreign aggression until the United Nations acts?"

This was the topic debated by four Tridel students for Junior Town Meeting of the Air, broadcast over Station WWVA, Nov. 1, 1958.

Linda White and Richard Hayes, affirmative speakers, stressed that to protect world peace the United States must act quickly to stop aggression. The UN's action is constantly weakened by the stalling of Communists.

On the other hand, Karen Rosenberg and Sarah Trach, who had the negative side, pointed out that it is the duty of the United States to work through, and not instead of, the UN; otherwise, this country's motives of intervening are misunderstood, and detrimental propaganda may flourish.

Following the arguments, several students asked questions of panel members. Dr. Chandler Shaw, Bethany College, acted as moderator.

Junior Richard Hayes and Senior Karen Rosenberg discuss arguments for the annual Junior Town Meeting of the Air.

Martha Lee Byrum, Linda White, and James Compagnone, members of the National Honor Society, present a new flag to Principal W. J. Farmer.

NHS Advocates Outstanding Scholarship, Character

Outstanding scholarship, character, leadership, and service were the essential qualities advocated and maintained by Tridel's National Honor Society.

Miss Adda L. Dunlap and J. W. Cochran served as co-sponsors of this organization that limited its membership to 15 per cent of the senior class and 5 per cent of the junior section. Induction services were held April 17 in assembly.

Among the various beneficial activities undertaken by this honorary group during the 1958-1959 term were the maintaining of the "Thought-for-the-Week" boards in both the girls' and boys' study halls; posting of typed schedules at each classroom door; conducting a devotional service in assembly; selling football tags to promote better support of the team; purchasing and presenting a new American flag to Triadelphia High School.

Educational Experiments Lure Triad Scientists to Lab

"Senior Martian Day?" queries Junior Barry Berisford, as he observes Martha Stewart, Science Club initiate.

Displaying unquenchable curiosity in the scientific realm, members of Tridel's Science Club held their twice-monthly meetings in order to probe the mystic realm of tomorrow's world.

At each get-together these junior scientists conducted various practical experiments that advanced their knowledge and reasoning. Aside from performing these numerous tests, participants also observed visual aids, heard and delivered reports, and discussed current scientific advancements.

Students maintaining an average of "B" in either chemistry or physics were eligible for admittance. Under the capable sponsorship of A. R. Milligan, this year's group was composed of 55 juniors and seniors.

Members climaxed the events of the term by touring a number of local industries, where they delved into numerous manufacturing processes that dealt with physical science.

Nature Enthusiasts Explore Realms of Scenic Beauty

Under the sponsorship of J. C. Bullard, nature enthusiasts met the first Monday of every month in Room 310.

Each Triad desiring membership in this Red and Black organization submitted a 50-word write-up enumerating the reasons for wishing to become affiliated with Tridel's Nature Club. Older members judged the contents of these short essays and selected the authors of the best as initiates.

Activities for the 1958-1959 year were colorful slides of numerous birds that were presented by Miss Edna Bowles and James Denham of Oglebay Institute; a tour of the John Dieckmann & Sons Greenhouses; a nature walk. This Oak Park unit was also invited to attend the Sunday afternoon nature programs in Oglebay Park.

Approved Aides Give Ardent Assistance in Library

Little Reds acquiring a "B" average and the endorsement of two teachers, plus the sanction of Miss Sarah F. White, librarian and sponsor of the Library Club, were eligible to join this organization.

Besides mending and rearranging books, sending overdue notices to negligent Oak Parkers, and keeping the library in good order for the use of Tridel's students, the 18 members helped ready new publications for circulation.

These assistant librarians met the fourth Thursday of each month and heard a book review, prepared and delivered by one of the members. Portions of these once-monthly sessions were devoted to additional library chores.

To conclude the year, the girls held a picnic and elected officers for the next school season.

Tomorrow's Teachers Sample Prospective Profession

Tridel's P. E. King Chapter of the Future Teachers of America sought to acquaint prospective educators with the different phases of teaching.

Mrs. Margaret Dobbs, in whose classroom meetings were held the first and third Tuesday of each month, sponsored the FTA. Members of the organization were required to be of sophomore, junior, or senior status, and each was required to maintain an average of at least a "B."

Events during '58-'59 included a bake sale and a talk on teacher certification by Laddie R. Bell, assistant professor of education at West Liberty State College.

To conclude their program of the year, members participated in a day of practice teaching in the elementary schools of Elm Grove and Woodsdale.

Judith Broemsen, Gloria Gwynne, and Sandra Emerson further their educational understanding by reading a copy of "The NEA Journal," subscribed to by the Future Teachers of America.

Medically-Minded Maidens Plan 'Capped' Careers

Miniature models of the human skeleton provide interesting companions for Joan Corkran, Linda Hamilton, and Paula Jayne Jaquay, members of the Future Medical Careers Club.

Seeking to become acquainted with the various aspects of medicine, 62 Tridel girls assembled the third Wednesday of each month to discuss their contemplated futures.

Miss Phyllis A. Beneke, dean of girls, sponsored the Future Medical Careers organization and was assisted by Mrs. J. E. Spargo and Mrs. A. J. Niehaus, members of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Ohio County Medical Association. An initiation was held at the first meeting, and a guest speaker lectured at the sessions that followed.

Spokesmen this year included Peggy Milligan '57, a junior nurse at the Martins Ferry Hospital, whose subject was nurses training; Mary Ann Sabol, a junior at the North Wheeling Hospital, who spoke on the recovery room.

During February the FMC'ers held a bake sale. In the spring the girls spent a day touring the Weirton Recreation Center.

Securing one of the many posters produced by the Art Club, Mary Ruth Hill and Robert Upton prove that the services of this organization were sought by various other Oak Park groups.

Artistic Triads Specialize in Varied Scenic Designs

Displaying an unusual mastery of crafts and colors, Tridel's 25 Art Club members, sponsored by Anthony Peck, met the second Friday of each month in Tridel's Art Room.

Initiation of new members, having been previously chosen for their neatness, originality, and cleverness in competitive designs, commenced the year's activities.

Providing scenery for "Snow Time '58," the two-night publications benefit; "He Who Walks in Love," a Masquers' presentation; and the Christmas program of vocal music, concluded the club's activities for the first semester.

Following a Jan. 30 bake sale, 10 Triad artists participated in a city-wide high-school decorating project at a local department store. Furnished with the necessary props, each team of two trimmed a showcase and used a Valentine motif. Each duo attempted to produce an appealing array of merchandise and a suitable atmosphere.

Throughout the year, the Art Club provided posters for club projects, decorations for dances, and back-grounds for various stage presentations.

Oglebay Park's Riding Academy provided the setting for the annual tryouts of Tridel's Riding Club. Judged by the old members, the girls exhibited their skill in mounting and dismounting, as well as their ability to guide their mount in a walk, trot, and canter. Those successful in these attempts underwent an initiation and became official members.

Numerous business meetings were held during the school year of 1958-1959, and three rides were scheduled each semester. A cross-country ride and a picnic concluded the activities for the year.

Pointed out Miss Mabel Scherich, sponsor, "Composed of those who enjoy the avocation of horseback riding, the Girls' Riding Club affords Tridel's equestriennes innumerable opportunities to exchange ideas and to discuss recent developments dealing with the equestrian art."

Jean Jacobs, Katherine Dickie, and Susan Clarke, Little Red equestrian enthusiasts, evaluate their "horse sense."

Triad Council Assists Needy at Home and Abroad

With the conclusion of the annual Membership Drive in November that netted a profit of $57.13, the Junior Red Cross was again on its way to another year of service to the less fortunate. Solicited by a representative from each homeroom, the funds were turned over to the American Red Cross for aid in its many serviceable projects.

Capably sponsored by Mrs. Catherine Ebert Shields, the council consisted of three officers and a representative from each of Tridel's 29 homerooms. Meetings were held periodically throughout the year, and the final session was devoted to the election of officers for 1959-1960.

Proceeds from a bake sale were given to CARE at Christmas time, and several Little Red organizations made voluntary contributions to this Yuletide project.

Diann Carr, Jean Cattano, and Alexandria Vargo select valuable material for future reference from an official publication of the American Red Cross.

'Golden Keys to Friendship' Unite Y-Teen Members

Tridel's largest organization, the Y-Teens, presented 16 varied programs during the 1958-1959 school year. These included semi-formal and informal dances, guest speakers, fashion shows, a community-service project, and numerous educational demonstrations.

Utilizing the theme "Golden Keys to Friendship," cabinet members were aided and advised in directing the club by Miss Adda L. Dunlap and Miss Mary B. Winters, Y-Teen sponsors.

At the initial meeting, the year's program was previewed by the cabinet and the older members as a "Key to Fellowship" for prospective Y-Teens. Ninth graders were entertained at a party in the gym.

All new members participated in an initiation ceremony in late September that continued the year's theme as a "Key to Opportunity." Repeating the Y-Teen code and singing the club song highlighted this get-together.

Henry Mazer, conductor of the Wheeling Symphony Orchestra, spoke to the club on music appreciation, an important "Key to Culture." Mr. Mazer illustrated his remarks with several piano selections. In late October Y-Teenagers treated Wheeling's orphans to a "cartoon show." At another meeting John Randolph, manager of the Wheeling Automobile Association, showed color slides of the United Nations and explained some of its functions.

Linda Jo Dirbas receives her Y-Teen pin from Patricia Brennan. Paula Stocker admires the sterling silver emblem.

Winter Provides 'Keys' to Culture, Charm, Enchantment

November programs included a visit from Rabbi William A. Rosenthal, of the Woodsdale Temple, and Dr. Garrett H. Evans, pastor of Christ Methodist Church. These clergymen discussed differences in their respective faiths, and members were given an opportunity to question the speakers on this subject.

Mrs. Howard Downs, Wheeling hair stylist, addressed the members on hair management and care. Culminating this "Key to Charm" was a style show.

"Key to Enchantment," the annual mid-winter, semi-formal dance, was held in Oglebay Park's Pine Room during the Christmas holidays. Earl Summers Jr. and his orchestra provided the music.

Beginning a Y-Teen meeting, Sophomores Eloise O'Shields and Alice Zimmerman present the devotions that precede every assemblage of this organization.

Senior Farewell and Election End '58-'59 Activities

January brought a "reading" by Mrs. Mark Trach, and Wintergreen Hall was the scene of February's Valentine Dance, "Key to My Heart." Magic and hypnotism was the intriguing theme of the February program. The Rev. Father Charles L. Fijal, S.M., a priest from St. Michael's Church, explained these mysteries.

In March, members presented a spring fashions show and a play. Group singing the following month provided the after-school entertainment.

Following the election of officers in April, a final semi-formal dance honored the seniors. Each graduate-to-be received a corsage, indicative of her "Golden Key." At the last meeting of the season, new officers were installed, adopting their "Keys to Honor" for the coming year.

Connie Santo, Nancy Woodruff, and Carol Tiggelbeck prepare to become Y-Teens by filling out membership blanks.

Junior Rhys Evans stops to converse with a fellow initiate, alias Robert Hadorn, in the Hi-Y's fall initiation.

Promoting clean living and striving for larger participation, the Hi-Y began the 1958-1959 school year with two introductory meetings. Following these initial sessions, interested Triad students took a "tell-tale" test based on Hi-Y history and principles.

After new members had been initiated in the Halloween tradition, attention was turned to the raising of capital. This goal was realized by candy machines, sale of refreshments and programs at home basketball games, and washing cars during the late spring months.

Under the direction of Anthony Peck the organization performed many services for the school and community. Among these activities were solicitations for the Heart Fund, raising and lowering the American Flag, and manning a Salvation Army booth during the Christmas season. Participants secured the necessary five points per semester to remain in the club.

Stitches and Skillets Occupy Domestic Devotees

With the hope of a new spring wardrobe in mind, Carolyn Bodkin and Diana Heusel eagerly scan patterns.

“ . . . We may live without friends; we may live without books; But civilized man can not live without cooks.”

Keenly aware that two of the spices of life are cooking and sewing, future homemakers of Tridel met monthly to discuss culinary arts and needle-and-thread techniques.

Under the expert guidance of Mrs. Dora Steele and Miss Geraldine J. Newman, the Home Economics Club assembled the second Tuesday of each month in the Home Ec Department.

Tridel girls obtaining an average of “B” in either sewing or foods were extended membership privileges.

Highlighting the club's '58-'59 activities were a Christmas party, the sale of Yuletide candy, and a demonstration in novelty cooking by Mrs. Mildred Zitco, representing the Wheeling Electric Company. To conclude their year, the 24 members planned and enjoyed a picnic supper.

Potential Business Leaders Organize New Triad Club

Organized this year, Tridel's chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America met the first Tuesday of each month. Membership was limited to students doing satisfactory work in at least one business subject.

Sponsored by Mrs. Mary Alice Groppe, Mrs. Opaline T. Martin, Mrs. Catherine Ebert Shields, and Miss Katherine E. Barnard, FBLofA members sold United States Savings stamps and bonds throughout the year; studied a local industry, the Wheeling Steel Corporation; and offered clerical assistance to the faculty and the administration.

Business meetings were supplemented by various programs that included a film on the Weirton Steel Corporation, a play, and a talk by Jack N. Thompson, representing the Public Relations Department of Wheeling Steel. Choosing next year's officers and holding a party closed the year's activities.

Thomas Stanton and Beth Lewis sell U. S. Savings Stamps to Little Reds, reminding them that "A penny saved is a penny earned."

Sponsored by A. R. Milligan, Tridel's Projection Crew of '59 consisted of 18 industrious volunteers who willingly sacrificed one study hall a day to further the Oak Park program of visual aids.

Having been selected by Mr. Milligan on their ability and interest in electricity, these boys lent a helping hand at THS during assemblies, special programs, and classwork. Three of these Little Reds were at work in the auditorium each period of the day.

During the past year the projectionists, under the leadership of Mr. Milligan, have shown 348 reels of film to Oak Park students and teachers.

By alternating their duties, these 18 lads were given ample opportunity to show their abilities as expert operators, housemen, and electricians.

Lighting difficulties are remedied by Barry Clutter and James Albaugh.

'Music Hath Charms' for Fledgling Choristers

Striving to blend into perfect harmony, melody-minded maidens of the ninth grade met three times each week under the capable direction of Miss Virginia L. Brand.

Training in the basic principles of music and proper voice techniques provided the choral group with exceptionally informative sessions. "Practice makes perfect" might well have been the adage of this almost "heavenly" choir.

Accompanied by Ellen Firstenberger and Ruth Little, these fledgling warblers highlighted the first semester by participating in an October choral assembly. They also brightened the Yuletide season in the traditional evening Christmas concert and the musical holiday assembly.

Harmonizing skillfully in the Lenten services and in the spring choral concert, the golden-voiced ninth graders climaxed the year with music at Freshman Promotion Exercises in May.

Vocalizing Veterans Practice Perfected Pitches

Sophomore, junior, and senior vocalists who had participated in at least one previous year of choral training were included in the Second-Year Girls' Chorus.

"Tuning up" three times weekly, the second-year singers were directed and accompanied by Miss Virginia L. Brand.

With appearance in an autumn choral assembly during October, the feminine choristers, clad in white blouses and dark skirts, marked their initial performance. Yuletide songs in December concluded the first semester's musical activities.

During Lent the vocalizers sang sacred music appropriate to the season. Terminating the year for the tuneful Triads was the Spring Choral Concert in May.

"Social, mental, and emotional satisfaction is gained through development of musical skills," commented Miss Brand, "and the Second-Year Girls' Chorus furthers this aim."

Friendly persuasion by Linda Wayt assures Sandy Williams and Linda Hough of a worthwhile purchase.

Advanced Choristers Create Melodious Variety of Tunes

Choristers Sara Lang and Patrick Monahan harmonize prior to one of the numerous performances by the Mixed Chorus.

Under the direction of Miss Virginia L. Brand and accompanied by Junior Eliza Rider, the Mixed Chorus practiced three times each week.

Running the gamut of songs from sacred to humorous, members of this "noted" group must have previously had a year of choral music. Interest, attitude, and ability figured in the acceptance of aspirants.

As well as appearing in an Oct. 10 assembly, these choristers also sang at the twelfth annual Open House, Nov. 9. Many of these harmonizers participated in the Oglebay Choral Clinic at the Oglebay Park Pine Room, Nov. 15.

Holiday harmony was featured in a Dec. 10 assembly. For parents and friends the same program was repeated Dec. 12 at an evening concert.

Second-semester activities included an appearance at the Woodsdale Grade School and the Spring Concert in May.

Karen Muenze and Sarah Skedel, Triadette altos, iron out a "rough spot" under the meticulous direction of Miss Virginia L. Brand.

Triadettes Trill Tunes to Appreciative Audiences

Six voices blended smoothly as the Triadettes presented harmonious entertainment both "at home and abroad."

Garbed in long-sleeved aqua sheaths highlighted by gold crescents, the sextette harmonized at assemblies in October, December, and February. Additional melody was provided at the annual Publications Variety Show and at the Band Christmas Concert.

Directed by Miss Virginia L. Brand and accompanied at the piano by Joan Neuhart, this talented group sang at a benefit for the Ohio County Tuberculosis Association and at P-TA programs in Fulton and Parkview Elementary Schools. Other engagements included the Bethlehem Kiwanis Dinner, the Island Mothers Club of Madison School, and the Spring Formal at the College of Wooster.

Tridel's songsters also appeared as guests at the St. James Evangelical Lutheran and the Bethlehem Presbyterian Churches. An assembly at Woodsdale Grade School concluded their '58-'59 schedule.

David Horne and Rachel Freeze, drum majors, check Little Red formations prior to a half-time performance.

Combining intricate and precision drills with fast-moving formations, the Triadelphia High School Marching Band provided pre-game and half-time entertainment for the fans at all Little Red pigskin frays except one, the St. Clairsville contest, because of bad weather.

Under the expert direction of Stefano R. Ceo, head of Tridel's Department of Instrumental Music, the Marching Band continued to hold the attention and admiration of its varied audiences by playing well-known popular songs and lively marches.

Red and Black music men were also seen participating in many of the local and area parades throughout the year.

Preparation for this term's work started early last August, when Mr. Ceo provided instruction for any new member and helped older participants review the fundamentals of marching.

at Assemblies and Concerts

Proving their all-around musicianship, these student performers moved into the concert season by giving their annual December program that featured music in the Christmas mode. Continuing their yearly music-appreciation series, the Little Red Concert Band next performed in a January assembly and then appeared before Triads late in the second semester. Several evening concerts were included in their 1958-1959 schedule.

Solo and ensemble work gave members an opportunity to display their individual talents, and the single and group concertizing was climaxed by participation in the West Liberty State College Contest in March under the sponsorship of the Northern Panhandle Bandmasters Association and the auditions of the Wheeling Thursday Music Club. By taking part in these events, Tridel's Red and Black musicians earned credits toward their band letters.

"If only I could win one!" pines Judy Theiss as Thedasia Vosvick proudly displays her medal that she won in solo and ensemble competition.

High-Stepping Majorettes Combine Twirling and Tooting

Relaxing after a tense and exciting first half, spectators at all Triad football encounters were entertained by these baton-twirling Majorettes and their intricate and fast-moving routines.

Required to prove their ability in leadership, musicianship, and the skillful use of the baton, the Little Red twirlers were guided by Stefano R. Ceo.

Besides their appearances at grid contests, these girls also participated in half-time ceremonies at the annual West Virginia-Ohio All-Star football game. Preceding the Red and Black Band in numerous parades throughout the school term, the Majorettes provided the hundreds of persons who lined the streets an opportunity to observe their polished performances.

As the hustle and bustle of the pigskin season died away, batons were exchanged for clarinets, saxophones, French horns, and bells; the Little Red masters of rhythm had fallen into the pattern of the Concert Band.

Kitchen Keepers Provide Delectable Daily Lunches

When the daily lunch bell rang, vast numbers of Little Reds rushed toward the cafeteria to partake of the tempting food prepared by Tridel's experienced cooks.

Mrs. Nelle Moore, Mrs. Helen Marshall, Mrs. Lea Rhoades, and Mrs. Helen Corkran combined their culinary knowledge to present a varied and an appetizing array of food each day. In addition to their culinary duties, these four ladies were responsible for the planning, purchasing, and bookkeeping aspects of the cafeteria.

Respected by Little Red students and faculty, Tridel's five dependable custodians, Joseph Organ, Ford Pogue, Carl Knauss, Charles Fry, and the late Harry Speiser, performed endless duties and lent numerous helping hands to dismayed students.

Keeping classrooms and corridors clean and neat, these five men also watered plants, caught mice, and did countless other odd jobs.

Friendliness and helpfulness have made these Triad maintenance men admired and an integral part of school life within the walls of Triadelphia High School.

Plunderers

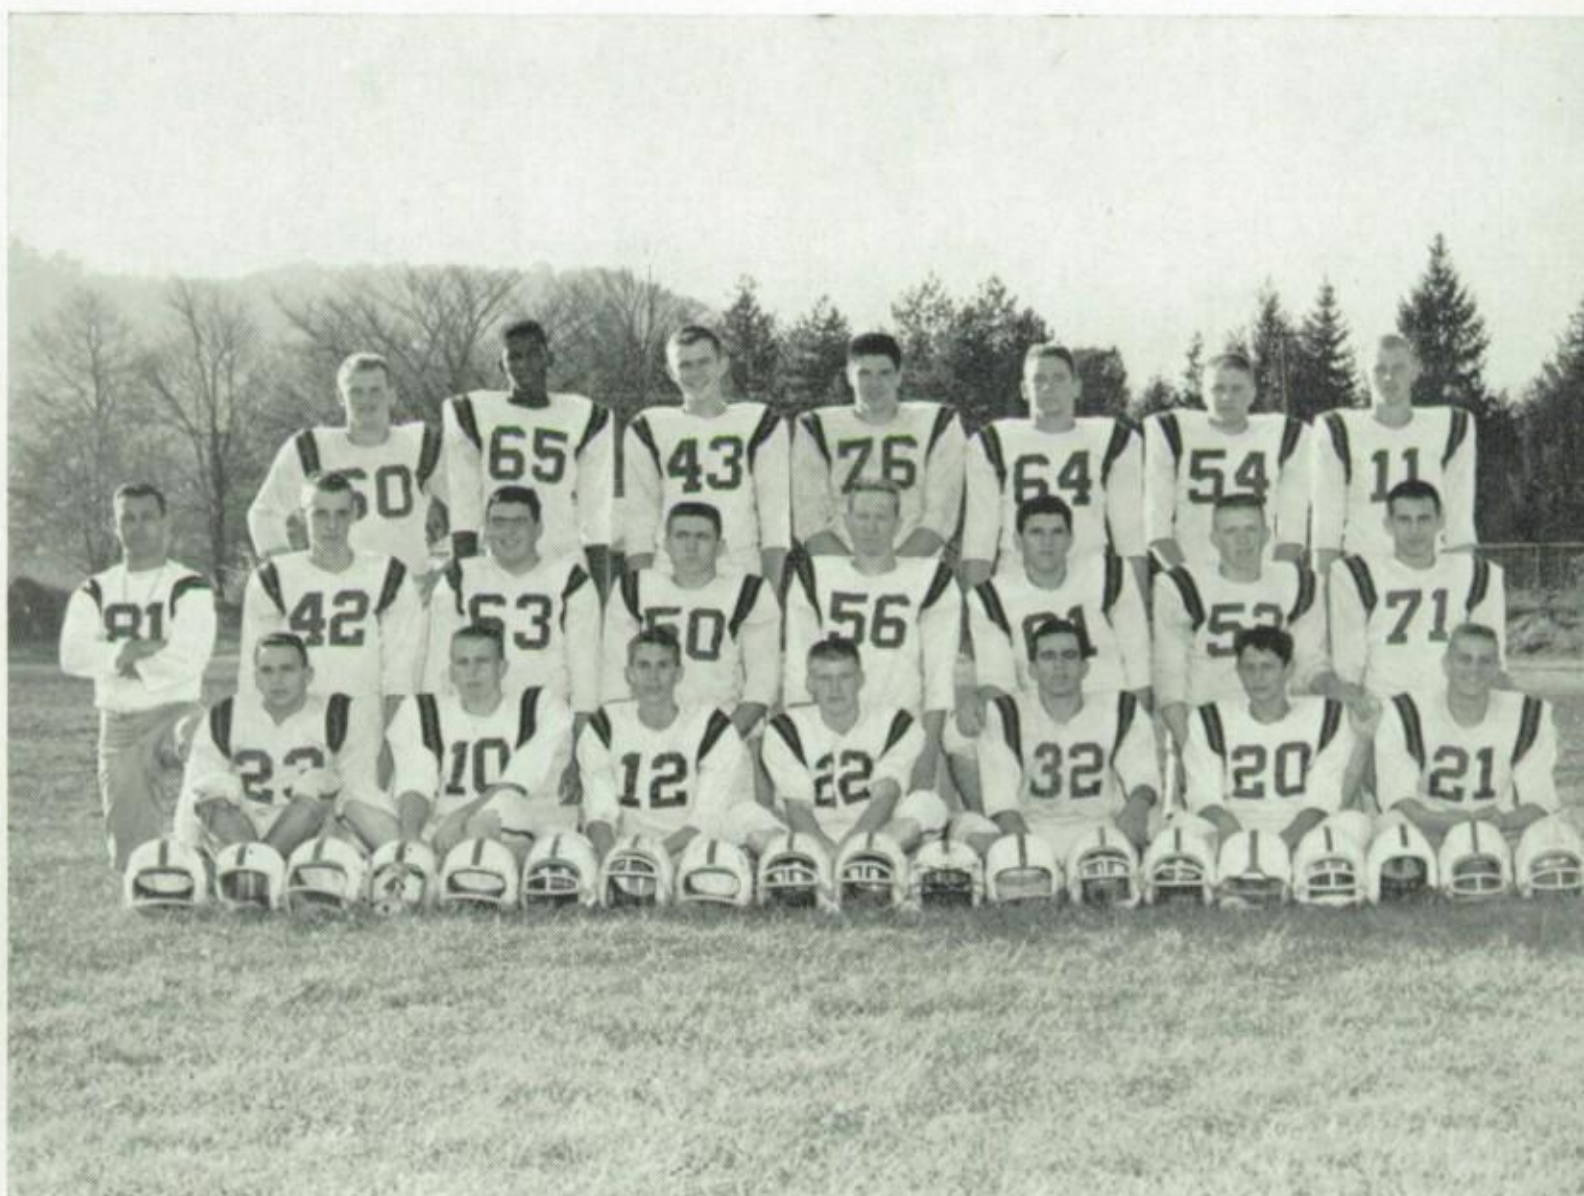

Assistant Coach Thomas L. Ackerman, Faculty Manager of Athletics Arthur E. Jones, and Assistant Coach Glenn R. Schreiber look to Head Grid Mentor Frank Dumas for a prediction as to the outcome of next year's pigskin campaign.

Oak Park Grid Aggregation Conquers Four Opponents

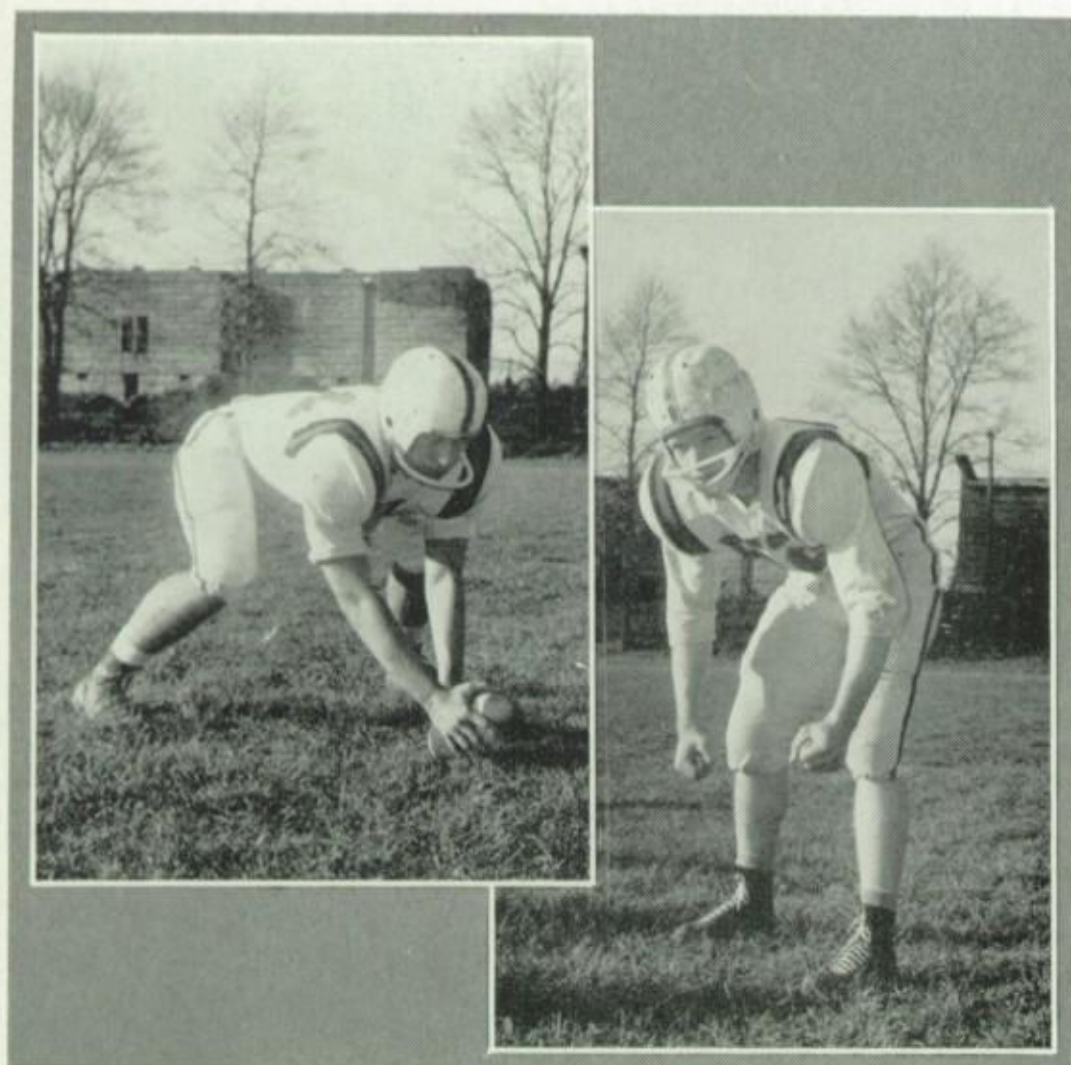

Rebounding from the winless '57 campaign, the 1958 Triad grid combine battled with a dogged determination and a vicious aggressiveness to compile four victories and two stalemates against four setbacks on one of the toughest schedules in the Ohio Valley.

Under the reins of Head Coach Frank Dumas and Assistants Glenn R. Schreiber and Thomas L. Ackerman, the Little Red gridmen, employing the single-wing formation, displayed a rugged "hard-nosed" brand of football. Oak Park trounced Wellsburg, 28-14; walloped Martins Ferry, 20-6; blasted St. Clairsville, 27-13; and bombarded Warwood, 39-19.

Fighting Moundsville to a scoreless deadlock, the Little Reds also tied Union, 6-6. Central, Bellaire, Parkersburg, and Wheeling defeated the Red and Black, 12-0, 36-6, 46-6, and 26-18, respectively.

Coach John A. Shinsky discusses grid tactics with Joseph Montalbano and James Seibert, freshman co-captains.

Freshman Footballers Sport Three Victories in '58

Guided by Coach John A. Shinsky and Carl Norman '51, the freshman football aggregation sported three victories against two defeats during the 1958 campaign.

Inaugurating the season with a 20-0 decision over Union, the Little Red plebes then dropped Central's yearlings, 6-0. After Martins Ferry whipped the first-year Triads, 19-0, the Red and Black frosh retaliated by pounding Shadyside, 40-0. In a sea of mud the Wheeling ninth graders submerged the Little Reds, 7-0, to conclude the Oak Park freshman schedule.

Tackle Joseph Montalbano and Halfback Anthony Howard Biddings were lauded by Coach Shinsky for their outstanding performances.

Nine Peppy Cheerers Maintain 'B's' to Earn 'T's'

"Practice makes perfect!"—so—o—o—o—Cheerleaders Susan McCormick and Kathleen Friebertshauser practice talking, of course!

Adding pep and zip as well as attractive scenery to field and floor, six varsity and three reserve Cheerleaders led high-spirited crowds through countless chants during the past year.

For football and basketball frays, these peppy gals appeared in black culottes and white sweaters. Meeting in the auditorium at the close of school on alternate Wednesdays and Thursdays, the nine enthusiastic maidens practiced routines for coming games or pep assemblies.

Chosen following tryouts, Tridel's Cheerleaders settled down to studies as each was required to maintain a "B" average in order to remain on the squad. Miss Phyllis A. Beneke, dean of girls, sponsored the tireless cheerers this year.

Red chenille "T's" were awarded the varsity girls in recognition of their services.

Red and Black Hoopmen List 12 Victories, 9 Defeats

After recording 12 victories and 8 defeats in regular season competition, Tridel's varsity hoopmen terminated the '58-'59 court campaign with a 61-45 setback from Weirton in a Section I encounter of the West Virginia Class "AAA" Basketball Tournament.

Highlighting the year with a sudden-death overtime triumph over Central that snapped the Maroons' 23-game winning streak and an upset conquest at Bellaire, Oak Park also enjoyed wins over McKinley, Warwood, Moundsville, Wellsburg, Magnolia, Wheeling, and Follansbee.

Plagued with inexperienced material from the onset, Coach Thomas L. Ackerman in his first year as head mentor molded a winning combination out of three seniors and two sophomores. Comprising his starting five were Seniors John Osborne, Carl Spring, and David Kerns, and Sophomores James Brown and Richard Hess.

Reserve Dribblers Emerge Victorious in 14 Outings

Guided by Coach Frank Dumas, Tridel's reserve cage aggregation garnered 14 triumphs as against 6 setbacks to register one of its most successful seasons in a decade.

In engaging the majority of its opponents twice, the Oak Park junior varsity never incurred more than one defeat from any team on the schedule. Enjoying two victories each over Central, Moundsville, Wellsburg, Wheeling, and Follansbee, the Little Red reserves also sported single conquests over McKinley, Warwood, Magnolia, and Union.

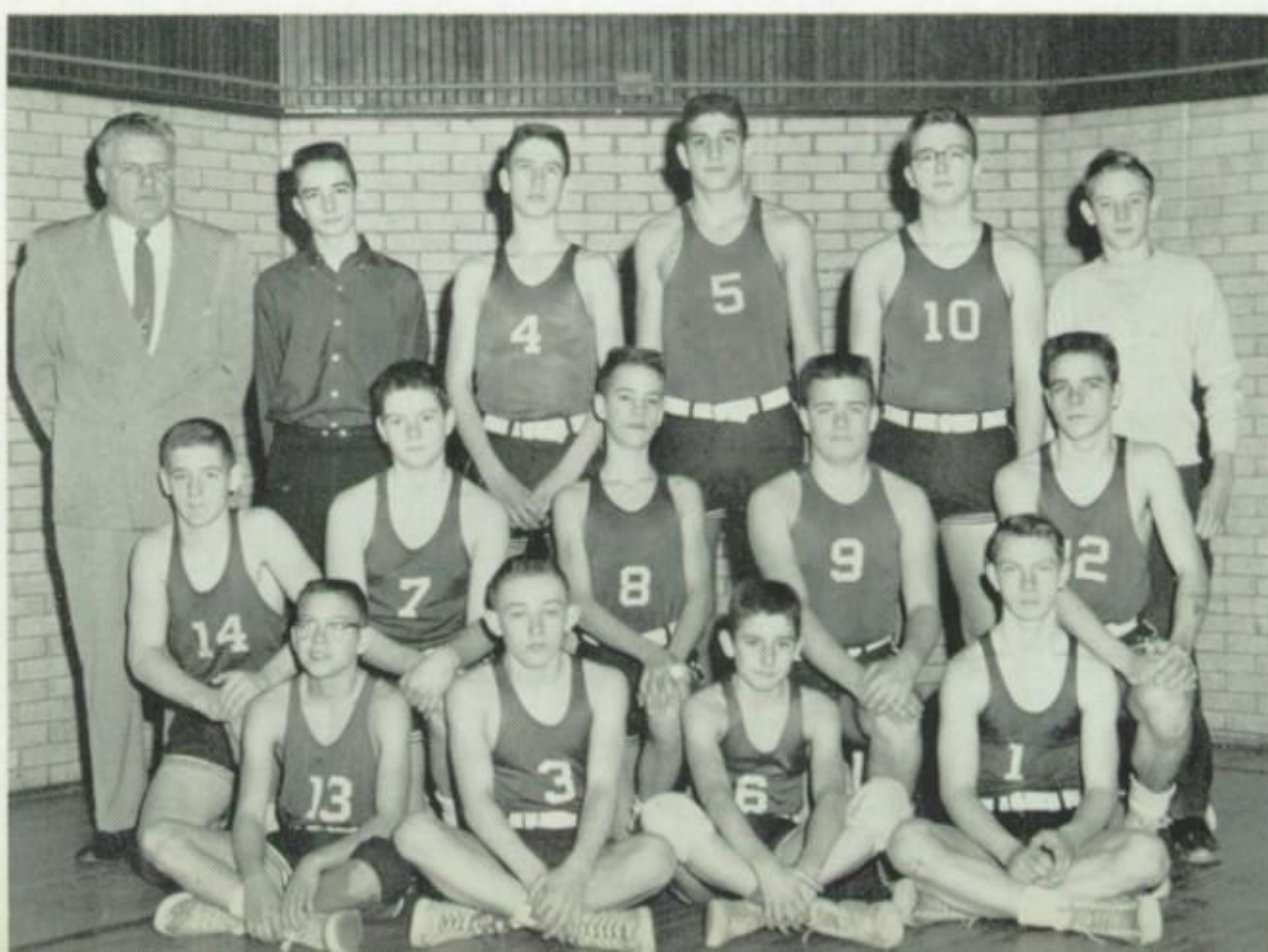

Usually receiving the call for first-line duty were Guards David Francis and Ray Barnhart, Forwards Howard Gray and Robert Creighton, and Center Sam Lantz.

Little Red Plebeian Cagers Boast Nine Wins in 1959

Compiling the best Triad freshman record since 1955, the Little Red plebeian cagers boasted nine wins against five defeats for the '59 court campaign.

Under the reins of Coach John A. Shinsky, Tridel's first-year dribblers with aspirations of attaining berths on the varsity or reserves next year learned and practiced the fundamentals of the cage sport. Successfully subduing Warwood, Central, and Lincoln in a duo of engagements with each of those teams, the Red and Black fledgling hoopmen also notched conquests over Linsly, Ritchie, and Madison.

Paced by lanky Bruce Berman, pivotman, the Triad frosh captured fourth place in the Wheeling Freshman League.

Linksmen Victorious in Five of Seven Encounters

Victorious in five of seven outings, the Little Red linksmen highlighted their 1958 season by garnering the Stifel Cup for the sixth time in the last seven years.

Posing as a perennial power in the Ohio Valley, Coach C. C. Kraus' golf team was unable to reign supreme in the OVAC contest, partly because his squad was crippled by the graduation of Johnny Wilson, four-year veteran. Otherwise the Oak Parkers were triumphant in all other frays save for an early engagement with Central.

Triad golf stalwarts included Richard Hadsell, Jim Weishar, Leroy Gibson, Mike Wallis, Mickey Donoghue, Tom Byrum, and Fritz Doepken.

Diamond Nine Registers Five Triumphs, Three Defeats

By trouncing the previously unbeaten Union Ironmen, 8-0, Tridel's 1958 diamond nine culminated their campaign with five victories against three setbacks.

Aside from the Union conquest, Coach Arthur E. Jones' baseballers also defeated Moundsville, Central, Wheeling, and McKinley. In another set-to with the Golds, the Wildcats edged the Little Reds in a 3-1 extra-inning fray to dethrone THS as Section III champs.

Larry Walters and Carl Spring bore the brunt of the Triad pitching attack. Wielding mean "timbers" were Bob Peyton, David Jackson, and Kirk Nolte with batting averages of .387, .363, and .344, respectively.

Red Speed Merchants Compete in Steel Valley League

Tridel's cinder aggregation under the guidance of Head Coach John A. Shinsky and Assistants Frank Dumas and Glenn R. Schreiber became a constituent of the Steel Valley League this year as a contender in its southern division.

Competing in the SVL's southern loop against Wheeling, Linsly, Moundsville, Martins Ferry, and Steubenville in a series of dual meets, the Little Reds engaged a high caliber of track talent. In addition to league encounters, the Oak Parkers participated in the Brooke County Relays, OVAC Meet, City Meet, and the West Virginia Regional and State Meets.

Blessed with his best oval team in five years of coaching, Mentor Shinsky had five holdover lettermen, including Walter Steinman, John Beecroft, James Brown, Phillip Rea, and Harold Cooke, from his 1958 corps of Triad thinclads.

Oak Park Track Coach John A. Shinsky engages in a humorous conversation with the Red and Black oval lettermen. Veteran cinder performers include Sophomore Phillip Rea, James Brown, Junior John Beecroft, and (kneeling) Senior Walter Steinman and Sophomore Harold Cooke.

Seniors Ken Burroughs and Leslie McNinch attract unknown basketball stars.

TAC Techniques Keep Athletes Physically Fit

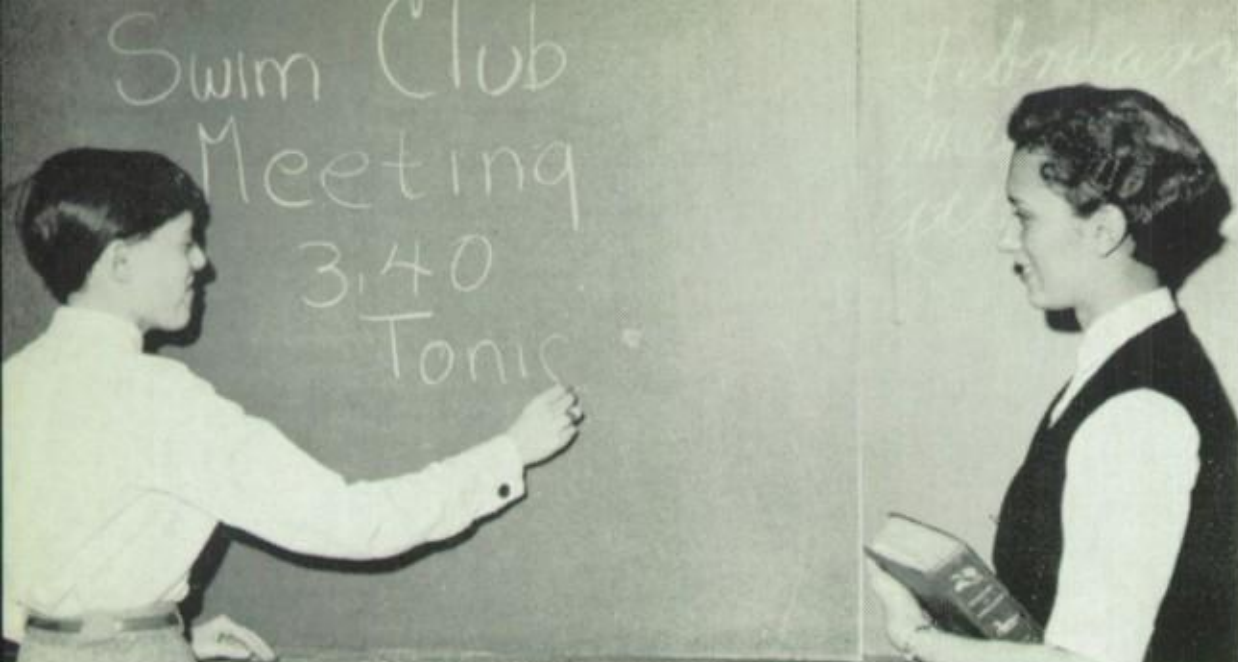

Created for the dual purpose of providing training in physical fitness and allowing Little Red athletes to remain in top condition during their off seasons, the Triadelphia Athletic Club completed its second year of existence.

Under the able leadership of Frank Dumas, Glenn R. Schreiber, John A. Shinsky, and Thomas L. Ackerman, Triadelphia's coaching staff, this organization, dubbed the TAC Club, furnished the student body with various sporting events. Included were a basketball tournament, student-teacher dribble fray, and the TAC Club Relays.

Membership was open to any athlete competing in one major or two minor sports. Each boy, however, was required to maintain a passing mark in three subjects and to compete in periodic physical examinations from which he could receive the ratings of All-County, All-State, or All-American.

Merited Mermaids Actively Practice Aquatic Arts

Showing their anticipation for the coming of warm weather, the Girls' Swimming Club plunged eagerly into the aquatic sport during the dead of winter. These gals took advantage of every opportunity to dip and dive into the cool water.

Sponsored by Miss Margaret H. Newton, Triad mermaids swam at Ritchie School the first Tuesday of each month. Their schedule for the year also included a monthly business meeting.

Proving themselves as skilled in the art of cooking as in the art of swimming, these females sponsored a bake sale in January.

Two tryouts this year required prospective members to perform four different strokes in addition to a standing dive from the side of the pool. Restricted to 50 members, the club was composed of swimmers who rated highest in the tryouts.

GAA 'Courts' Seasonal Sports With Spherical Solids

Sponsored by Miss Margaret H. Newton, physical education mentor, the Little Red Girls' Athletic Association convened the second and fourth Thursday of each month.

Flooring and netting spherical solids in after-school intramural contests, the court aggregation spotlighted line-soccer tournaments in the fall; basketball in the winter; and volley ball and ring tennis in the spring.

On the outside court, the GAA sponsored a tennis tournament, the winner receiving a club-donated trophy.

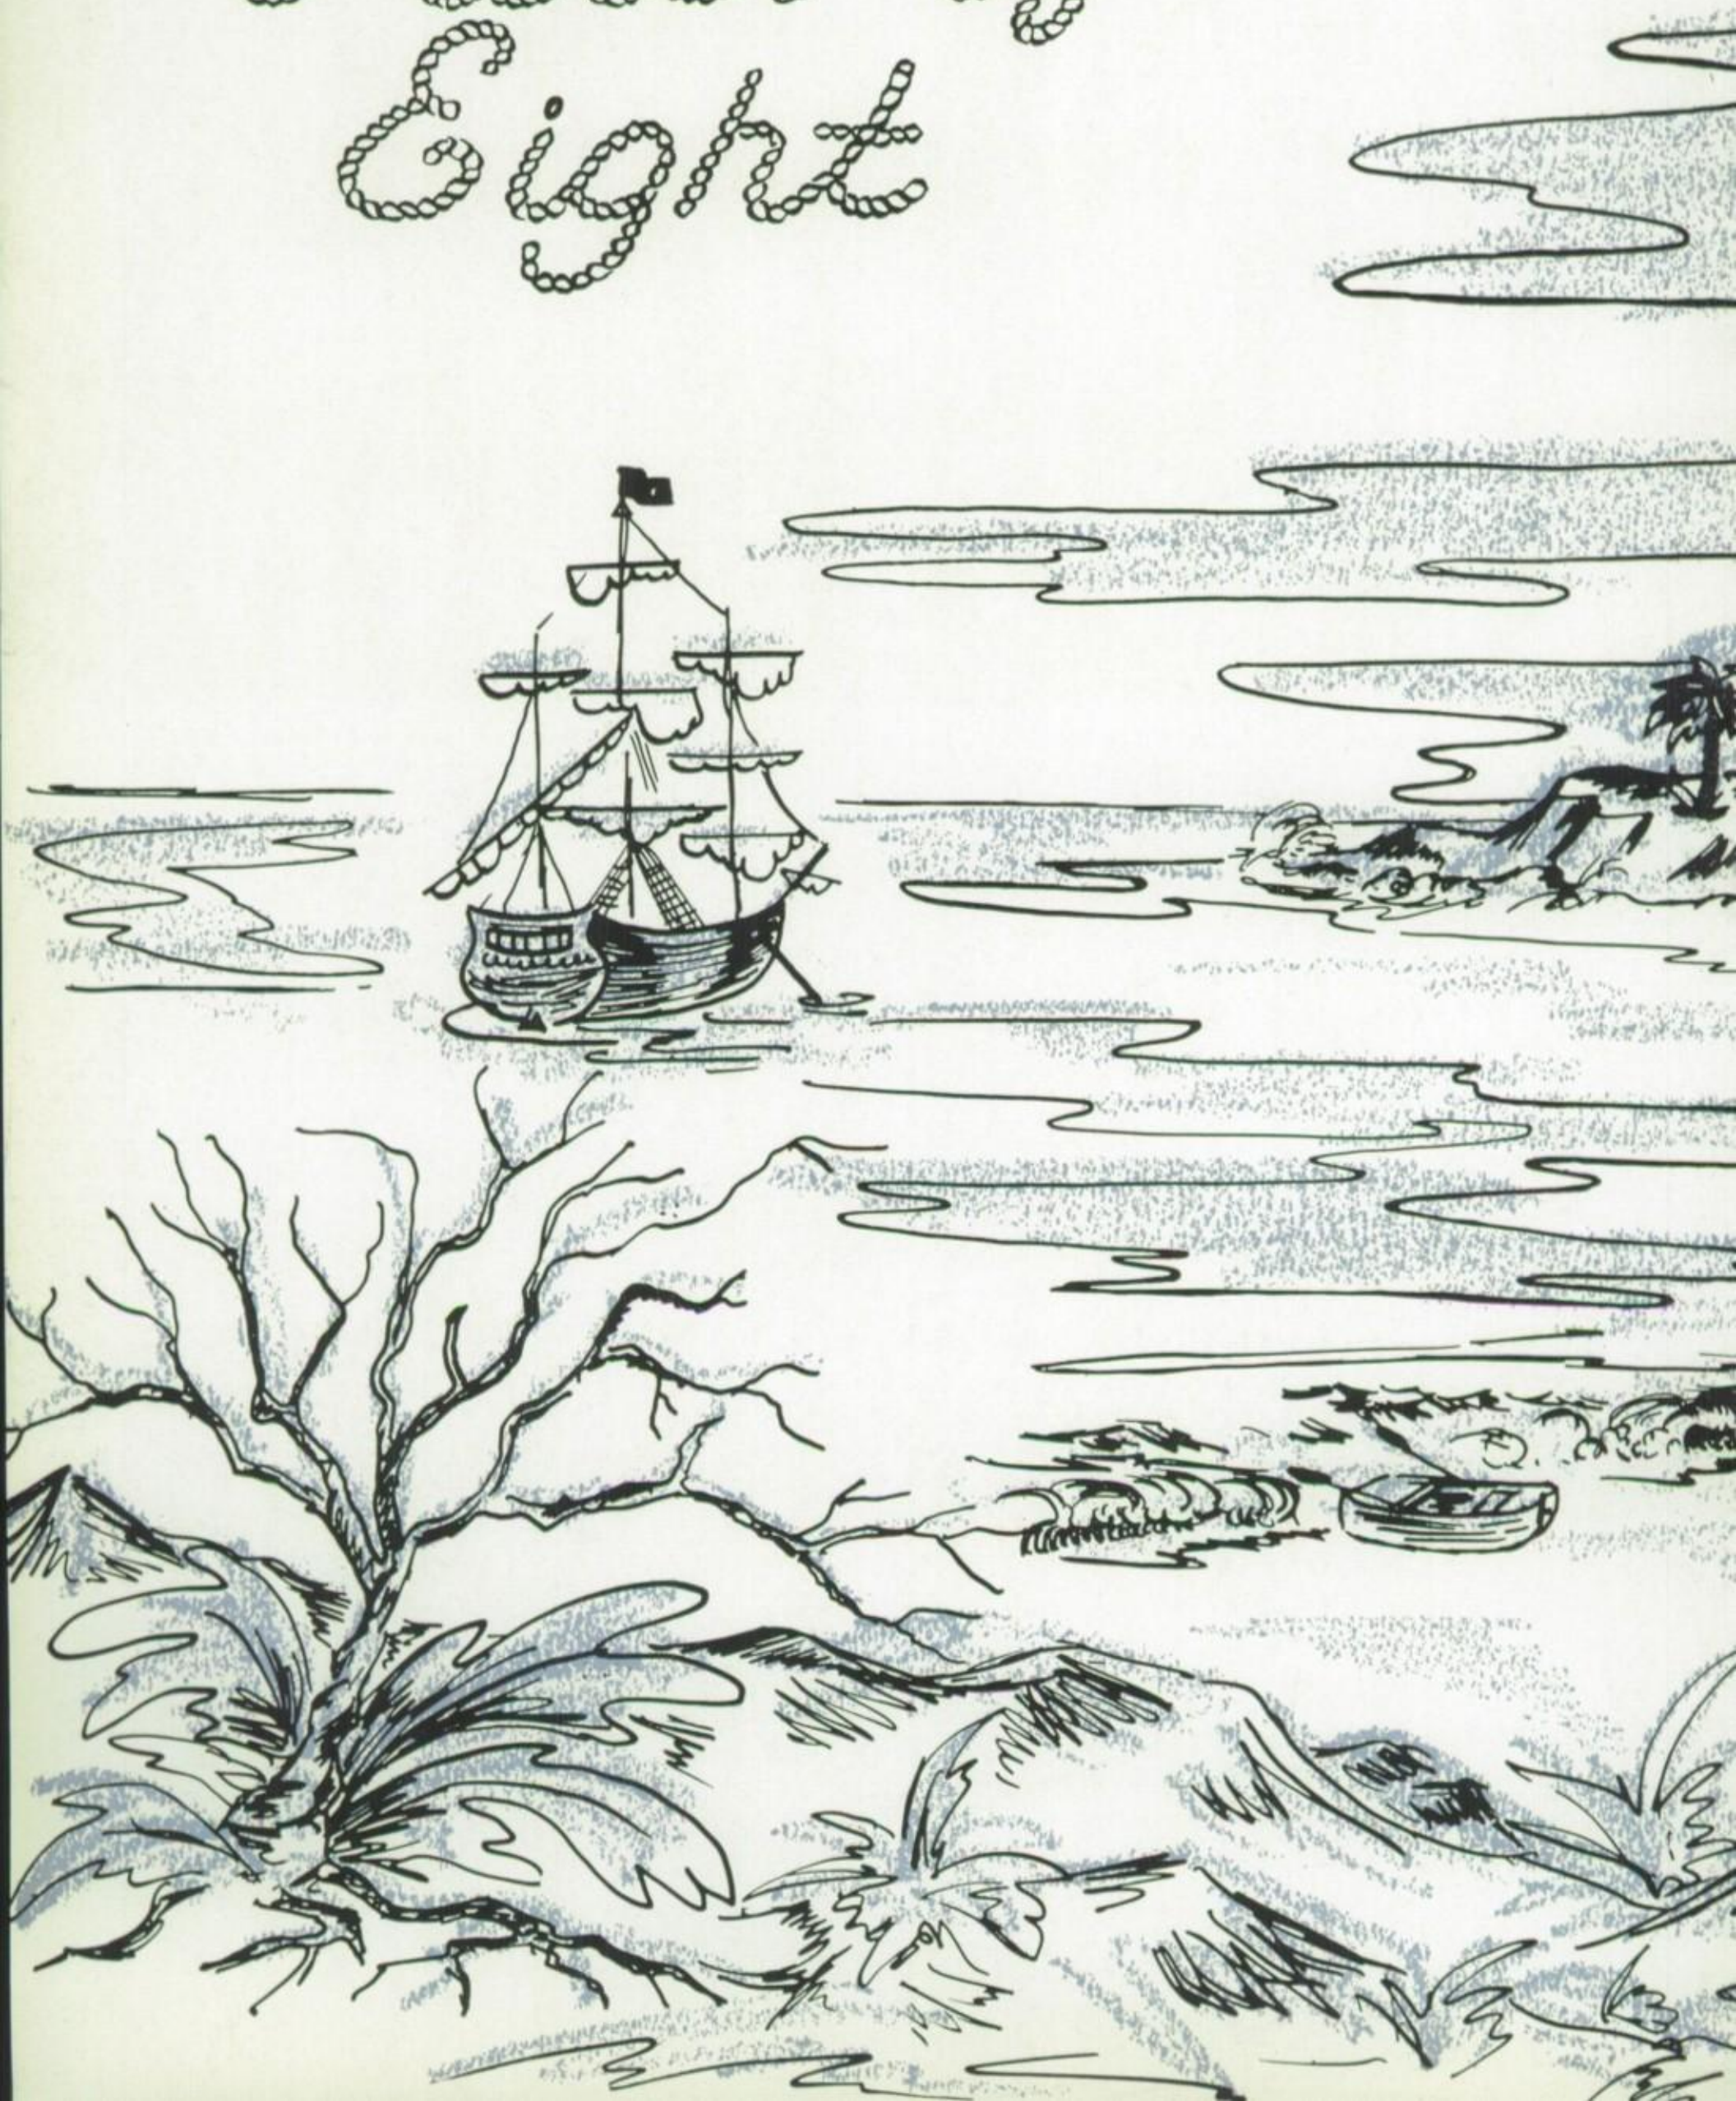

Another autumn endeavor included a hike to Oglebay Park, designed primarily so that initiates might gain the all-important 200-credit points for admission during the second semester.

After attaining the required membership points, conscientious members were eligible for the 300-point emblem and the 500-point "T." Higher plateaus of recognition—one felt star for each 100 credits—were also available.

Points to ponder deserve a frequent check. Holly June Gardner and Barbara Terek delve into the GAA record boxes.
